

It enables to bond a sample at a regular pressure, so that you can measure peel force more precisely.